

Let's not spend the night together

"He used to love her, but it's all over now. A couple for more than two decades, Mick Jagger, and Jerry Hall, said they would have their marriage annulled. Hall filed for divorce after a Brazilian model claimed Jagger had made her pregnant. But Jagger challenged the action, saying his marriage to Hall in Bali was not legally valid. Undoubtedly the hangup was money. London papers claimed that the Rolling Stones' lead singer will pay $11 million to $15 million. That shouldn't be a problem. The Stones, even after rolling for a third of a century, are still the world's top musical attraction, taking in nearly $88 million so far from this year's touring."

(Adapted from Time, July, 1999)

01) The statement from the text, "But Jagger challenged the action, saying his marriage to Hall in Bali was not legally valid" means that Jagger

a) displayed how his determination in relation to his marriage in Bali was not valid and legal in court

b) expressed his disagreement about the authorities rules, affirming his speech was true and there were some mistakes with the laws.

c) wanted to challenge Hall by saying their marriage had happened as a result of her pregnancy.

d) divorced his wife after confirming her judgment, accepting the consideration of a court of law she's brought an action against him.

RESOLUÇÃO DA QUESTÃO 01 : ALTERNATIVA B

Lê-se no enunciado: " Mas Jagger contestar a ação dizendo que seu casamento com Hall em Bali não era legalmente valido."

Logo está correto a alternativa B. Jagger discordou da decisão (regras) das autoridades, afirmando que sua contestação era verdadeira e que havia alguns erros com a lei.

Where Astronauts Are Gods

"In a country which learned not to believe in God, it reigns the belief in science. Like saints, the cosmonauts (the way Russians call astronauts) occupy a place of eminence in the pantheon of the national Russian heroes. They have multiple talents, being the greatest one, the capacity of going to space. Streets, avenues and schools are named after astronauts. There are a lot of statues and museums all over the country. There's also a date to celebrate them, April, 12.

Up to now, ninety nine Russians have already gone into space since 1961, when Yuri Gagarin became the first man to go into orbit.

Not by chance, he's adored among the conquerors of Cosmo. His premature death when he was 34 years old (seven years after his first and unique space flight in a tragic plane accident whose causes are still mysterious) contributed to create the myth."

(Adapted from O Globo, April, 02-2006.)

03) According to the text, it's understood that

a) Russians are people whose religion isn't so strong as it is in the rest of the world

b) Yuri Gagarin went into orbit and since then science is a great subject to be discussed

When houses are double glazed, only a relatively small amount of heat is lost through the windows. Double glazed windows have two panes of glass and air is trapped between them, preventing escaping of the heat. Double glazing also ensures that condensation is reduced and noise is decreased. Heating bills can be reduced when double glazing is installed. People living near busy roads or airports also find that double glazing has to be fitted.

Read the article below carefully and answer questions 12 to 14.
Fireworks
Fireworks constitute a variety of devices used for religious or entertainment purposes. They contain incendiary compounds that produce sound, color, smoke, or movement, or combination of these. The ingredients consist of fuels, oxidizers, and modifying agents. The fuels used are charcoal, sulfur, antimony sulfide, and powdered metals. Chlorates and nitrates usually provide oxygen for the reaction, since fireworks do not use atmospheric oxygen. Various colors are obtained from metals salts. Sodium produces yellow; copper, blue green; calcium, red; strontium, scarlet; and barium, green. Picric acid or sulfur tends to intensify the colors, and ammonium salts increase the shades obtainable. Addition of iron and aluminum powder provides sparks and fiery displays. The craft of blending mixtures packaging them is an ancient one in China, where fireworks are used for religious purposes. In Europe fireworks for entertainment have been manufactured since the 13 th century. In many places throughout the United States and Canada the sale of fireworks is restricted by law because of the danger of injury.

Who Moved My Cheese?

Who Moved My Cheese? It's a parable that reveals deep truths about changes. Two little mice and two little men live in a labyrinth searching for some cheese - a metaphor used to express what we wish to have in life, from a good job to spiritual peace. One of them is successful and writes what he learnt from his experiences on the walls of the labyrinths. The scribbled words on the walls teach us how to deal with the changes to live with less stress and achieve much more success at work and personal life.

15) It's clear that "Who moved my cheese ?" is

- a) a self-confidence book that tries to make us smarter to modify plentiful situations in our lives .
b) a piece of advice for the ones who can't solve their problems at all, and still insist on being stuck.
c) a self- improvement reading that shows how we should deal with ourselves and make life better.
d) a special speech for the ones that are involved with the great changes that occur when they get amazed.

Fakes - a world of copycats

Every year, criminals make millions of dollars selling fake perfumes, clothes, medicines and computer software. Counterfeit goods account for about 7% of total trade across the globe. And the criminals' gains are other people's losses. Take, for example, governments which are unable to collect revenue from indirect taxes and customs duty on legitimate sales.

Over 30% of sales in mainland China are estimated to be counterfeit. In India, fake products account for 10% of the revenue for the entire health sector. Five out of six Yamaha bikes sold worldwide are not the real thing. Nike, the brand which tells you to "just do it", loses $70 million annually to the menace of fake brands and pirate products. Identical fakes cost Gillette $20 million a year, and Proctor and Gamble loses a staggering $150 million on a twelve-month average in China alone.

Sometimes consumers prefer to buy an illegal copy of a video, CD-ROM, cassette or software package because it costs less. In Russia, for example, copies of Microsoft's Office 2000 program sell for just 1 % of the list price. Frequently, however, buyers don't realize they are buying a fake instead of the genuine article.

(Taken from Skyline 5 - Macmillan)

21) The sentence " the criminals' gains are other people's losses" means

The concept of generation gap is widely accepted in Canada and the United States. It was a concept that grew in prominence in the 1960s and 1970s, when a common belief among young people was "Never trust anyone over thirty", and many older people felt they could no longer understand young people. These days, many people think that the generation gap is lessening because the baby-boom generation ( those born between 1946 and 1961 ) has moved past the age of thirty.

( Taken from Passages 1 – TM, CUP )

COMENTÁRIO A RESPEITO DA PROVA DE INGLÊS:

A prova de inglês da AFA tem dado cada vez mais atenção às questões de interpretação de texto. Pode-se afirmar que a prova foi cansativa, devido ao grande número de textos (14). Além disso, os conteúdos abrangendo gramática foram poucos, mostrando uma tendência atual de privilegiar a interpretação de textos, consoante com a maioria dos concursos de hoje em dia. O vocabulário utilizado na prova foi relativamente acessível, embora tenha havido algumas questões capciosas. O conteúdo cobrado foi coerente com a proposta deste vestibular, que é avaliar a capacidade de leitura e de estruturas da língua inglesa.
